5. Craft sentences and paragraphs that communicate their ideas clearly and effectively using words, sentence patterns, and writing conventions to make their writing clear, credible, and persuasive.

Course Requirements & Grade Breakdown:

Below is our list of assignment categories. A note on grading: each assignment does not automatically begin with a full score. Rather, each assignment begins at zero; each point awarded is earned.

Major Essays	500 points	} 1000 total
Reading Checks & Participation	90 points
Writing Tasks	60 points
Practice Final Exam	50 points
Final Exam	300 points

Major Essays: Students will write three major essays, totaling 50% of your final grade. Each essay will build off the other in terms of skills and abilities learned through this course.

Writing Tasks & Reading Checks: Beginning the second day of class, we will use examination Green Books available at the LBCC Book Store at the start of every class period. These "Green Books" will be the way in which you receive credit for the reading you do outside of class, as well as allowing you a space to further engage with the material. Sometimes I will ask you to complete specifically directed questions intending to show that you have done the reading; more often I will ask you to engage with the reading more extensively by freewriting in your green book. There will also be longer in-class writing tasks intended to deepen your understanding of key writing and rhetoric principles. Green Books will be graded as follows:

- ✓ + Entry shows a clear understanding of, or concerted engagement with, the content of the assigned reading. Entry uses specific, textual examples (quote, paraphrase, or summary) from the reading to support claims. There is no doubt that the student read the assigned reading.
- ✓ Entry shows some understanding of, or some engagement with the content of the assigned reading. Entry uses some examples (quote, paraphrase, or summary) from the reading to support claims. There is no doubt that the student read the assigned reading.
- ✓ - Entry shows little to no understanding of or engagement with the content of the assigned reading. Entry uses few or no examples (quote, paraphrase, or summary) from the reading to support claims. It is unclear whether the student read the assigned reading.

Grade Information

- A: Excellent Work. Exceptional achievement; 4 quality points per credit.
- B: Above Average Work. Superior achievement; 3 quality points per credit.
- C: Average Work. Satisfactory work, meets requirements; 2 quality points per credit.
- D: Below Average Work. Requirements not met, but worthy of credit; 1 quality point per credit.
- F: Failing Work. Failure to meet requirements; 0 quality points per credit.

Grade Point Average (GPA) is calculated by dividing total quality points by total hours. Transcripts show current GPA (one term) and cumulative GPA (all classes taken at LBCC). You can obtain your final grades via your WebRunner student account.

Grade Scale

In a writing class, each assignment does not automatically begin with full scores that are then docked as the teacher finds things that are wrong or missing. Rather, each assignment begins at zero; each point awarded is earned. Final grades will be calculated as follows, out of 1000 points total. Google Classroom grades will show scores for individual assignments in order to show grade accumulation toward a final grade. Assignments are graded using four criteria: 1) Quality of thinking, 2) Organization and coherence, 3) Style and technique, and 4) Use of conventions, according to disciplinary standards.

- A = 900 - 1000
- B = 800 - 899
- C = 700 - 799
- D = 600 - 699
- F = 599 or fewer

Please note that I will not “round up” final grades at the end of the term, so please do not ask me. To revise any scores simply to alter a final grade defeats the purpose of the carefully designed rubrics and policies that I must fairly apply across the board to all assignments and all students.

Course Policies

Attendance & Participation: I will take attendance every day. While I will not deduct grades for poor attendance, missing too many classes will affect your grade, because you will miss Reading Check entries and in-class work that you will not be able to make up. Additionally, your presence in class is one of the ways in which you craft your ethos as a student.

Being a body in a seat is not full attendance – while you are in class, you are expected to pay attention, take notes, participate in discussion, and complete writing tasks. I will ask you to leave the class that day if you are not actively learning (i.e. sleeping in class, not paying attention to the course materials, or using your phone extensively). If you anticipate needing to miss class on the day that work is due, email me so that you can arrange turning the work in before the due date. Please also make all efforts to arrive to class on time.

Absences: Absence is not an excuse for ignorance. If you miss class, do not simply email me to ask “did we do anything important today.” I reserve the right to not answer those emails. If you are absent, it is your responsibility to contact one of your classmates and/or check Google Classroom for any learning materials posted (PowerPoints, assignment prompts, rubrics, etc.) to get the information you missed. If you are truly unable to find an answer to your questions through your peers or through your own investigations, then I’ll be happy to answer emails about specific questions. I ask that, if you know you will miss class, that you please contact me as soon as possible.

It is your responsibility as a student to make up the applicable work you’ve missed. I will only accept missed in-class Writing Tasks if you bring them as a hard copy on the first day you are back in class. You are responsible for knowing and implementing any changes to the schedule or expectations on assignments before arriving to the next class.

Due Dates and Late Work: All major essays are due to Google Classroom by 11:59 PM on the date listed on the syllabus – any work that is not turned in through Google Classroom (by email, as a hard copy, etc.) will still be considered late. I will often provide more specific instructions for assignment turn-ins, and may also ask you to bring hard copy drafts for in-class work. Extension requests must be emailed to me at least 48 hours in advance of the essay deadline; I reserve the right to deny any extension request, but if you contact me with an adequate plan for completion, I am happy to accommodate schedules.

Late work will drop 1/3 of a letter grade for each day that it is late. If the assignment has not been turned in within five days of the due date, I will no longer accept it. This is to ensure that you don’t fall too far behind. If you need an extension or know that a piece of work will be late, email me so that we can arrange something. Keeping in contact is key!

Google Classroom and Email: I will make regular use of Google Classroom and email to post materials, log grades, and contact you with announcements. You will receive an invite code from me during Week 1 to join our Google Classroom course site, so be sure to sign up as soon as you’re able (the code is also on the front page of this syllabus). You are responsible for checking your email regularly, as well as setting your Google notifications to receive new announcements. If you do not have ready access to the internet, in a way that will prevent you from successfully completing assignments, please inform me at the start of the term so that we can discuss alternatives. You must get my explicit, written permission for this.

Contacting Me: The easiest and fastest way to contact me is through my LBCC email (available on the first page of this syllabus). I will endeavor to respond to emails within twenty-four hours; if it has been longer than two days and you have not heard back from me, send me a follow-up email or check with me during class. I stop checking my email after 7pm every weekday and I do not check my email consistently on weekends. Please plan accordingly when contacting me.

It is your responsibility as a student to conduct yourself with rhetorical awareness and consideration. Therefore, emails that are not properly addressed or are without the proper respect and awareness of a student to teacher email will be promptly ignored.

Extra Credit: Occasionally, I may offer (SMALL) extra credit opportunities. You should not, however, rely on these for your grade improvement. Rather, focus on doing your best work without an additional point boost.

Essay Revisions: Because the majority of your grade in this class comes from the major essays, you are invited to complete revisions of these essays as many times as you’d like; by putting in that effort and investing deeply in your education, your writing will improve – and thus the grade you’ve earned will reflect that. However, you must turn in an essay by the original due date/time; otherwise, every subsequent revision submission will automatically lose 5% of its total grade. More information will be available on this as the essays are introduced.

Classroom Environment & Technology: The success of our class discussions and activities depends on your being physically and mentally present, as well as respectful; you owe yourself, your classmates, and me the courtesy of being both physically and mentally present. Cell phone use during class is disrespectful and distracting—to your classmates, to me, and to yourself as a learner. I will let you know if/when you may use your cell phones, computers, or other technology during class. Otherwise, please respect the learning environment and make sure your devices are put away when class starts. If you choose to use your device during class, distracting yourself, your classmates, and me in the process, I will give you one warning. For any subsequent occurrences, you will be asked to choose one of two options: take a 5 point deduction from your participation grade, or bring snacks for your classmates within the week of class meetings. This is to ensure that you unplug and focus during class. Again, consider how you are crafting your ethos as a student.

Statement of Inclusion: To promote academic excellence and learning environments that encourage multiple perspectives and the free exchange of ideas, all courses at LBCC will provide students the opportunity to interact with values, opinions, and/or beliefs different than their own in safe, positive and nurturing learning environments. LBCC is committed to producing culturally literate individuals capable of interacting, collaborating and problem-solving in an ever-changing community and diverse workforce.

Academic Honesty: Students at LBCC are expected to behave honestly. Any plagiarism – that is, using ideas, information, words, phrases, sentences, or paragraphs from someone else’s essay, book, article, website, etc. without giving full accurate credit to the original source – including forgetting to put quote marks around your sources – has serious consequences, up to an F for the class and/or a written report for further disciplinary action. Recycling your own work from other classes is considered self-plagiarism and is not allowed without prior written approval from me.

High School Students & Student-Athletes: If you are a student-athlete or a student currently enrolled in high school taking college-level courses at LBCC, keep in mind that I will not fill out progress reports during class time. We must chat before I fill out any progress reports; simply handing them to me will result in me handing it back without filling it out. Please plan accordingly to give yourself enough time to fill this requirement.
