Re: Monthly Updates for the Board of Education

Happy Fall,

What a wonderful summer we had. So many sunny days. Despite all the smoke it really was a beautiful summer.

The Classified have been busy getting ready for Fall Term. The New Student Center has helped around 1000 students so far. How wonderful is that.

Marci Johnston and her husband have started a new business in Albany. It is NW Auto Solutions. They are excited to serve the community as a one-stop automotive service center. Once more established they hope to be a second-chance employer for previously incarcerated individuals and hope to collaborate with LBCC's Automotive program.

Paul Tannahill was invited to interview on an online radio show called "Learning insights Radio."

Miriam Edell reported that the Small Farm students have been donating left over produce from the Farmers Market to the program for pregnant moms, and moms with young children who are LBCC students. After classes were over the Veterans garden program continued with the harvest, and donated the produce to the program. On September 5, they harvested over 350 pounds of produce in about 3 hours.

Thank You,

Debby Zeller
