■ COURSE DESCRIPTION & SENTIMENT ■

We've all been there. An awkward social interaction. A heated argument. A miscommunication. It happens. Interpersonal communication is something we do everyday. Whether it's meeting your in-laws for the first time, asking your boss for a raise, or ending a toxic relationship. Most of the time we take our communication for granted without really thinking about it. The only time we really pay attention to our communication is when it demands our attention.

This course considers the subtle nuances of this human process. With some self-inventory, anyone can improve their communication. It's a life skill; learning to work on it and yourself, is an invaluable thing to do that pays off in silver dollars later in life. Your spouse will thank me later. I believe in using real-life & relatable examples, as well as current events and discussion to illustrate the theoretical ideas of interpersonal communication. Identity, perception, emotions, nonverbals, listening, and conflict management are areas of focus. You will be expected to participate, as well as explain, analyze, and apply concepts.

■ LEARNING OUTCOMES ■

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

- 1. Apply interpersonal communication research and theory.
- 2. Identify interpersonal communication's key functional areas.
- 3. Analyze, select, and enact appropriate interpersonal communication behaviors based on the interpretation of the context.

■ REQUIRED MATERIALS ■

Interplay: The Process of Interpersonal Communication by Adler, Rosenfeld, & Proctor. 14th Ed. Print or EBook.

(Chapter 1 will be scanned for you to use the first week to give you time to purchase a copy)

■ ONLINE TEACHING EXPECTATIONS ■

Asynchronous vs. Synchronous learning: Online classes are typically considered synchronous or asynchronous, or somewhere in between. Synchronous learning happens in real time. This means that you, your classmates, & your professor interact in a live place and time. For our class, we will meet every Monday @ 10am via Zoom for lecture material and group activities.

Asynchronous learning happens on your own time. Assignments, tasks, reading chapters, discussion board posts, quizzes, and tests will be due on Fridays by 6pm. Our class will primarily operate asynchronously, w/ partial synchronous learning via Zoom. Some tasks and class points can only be completed by attending Zoom sessions.

Concerns & Considerations: Asynchronous learning does have it's disadvantages. With less in-person urgency in expressing prioritization and importance, procrastination and out of sight, out of mind, are real concerns. I will do my best to express that urgency in my online presence. Here are some practices to consider, and can apply to any online class.

- 1. Plan your day: Take time to create a consistent schedule for yourself. Consistency is key to being successful in an asynchronous online class.
- 2. Print out a copy of the schedule: Use our schedule and syllabus as a grounding anchor to see what you need to do and when you need to do it by.
- 3. Invest in a big white board: A white board can make a huge difference in being aware and accountable for things. A smaller equivalent is a planner or daily calendar. Any kind of visual reinforcement only serves to help you stay on top of things.
- 4. Set up a virtual office: Remote-work has better success when you have a designated place for work. The lines are already likely blurred for many, as to what is home and what is work. You need to pick a place that your mind can associate with work and study.

Zoom Etiquette: We will meet via Zoom every Monday. You will need to download Zoom on your computer or phone. Keep the following expectations in mind before attending our sessions. Consider these Zoom sessions to be a professional, yet friendly environment.

- 1. Please sign in with your full first and last name as listed on the class roster. You are expected to arrive on time. Attendance will be taken 5 minutes after the session begins, and if you are tardy, or do not show up, points will not be given thereafter.
- 2. You are expected to participate, speak up, and add to the conversation during discussion & activities. Sitting silently does not suffice in an interpersonal communication course.
- 3. Cameras need to be on during class, as it is helpful to see each other while we interact.
- 4. Find an environment without visual or auditory distractions. Turn off any music, videos, or anything else playing in the background if possible.
- 5. Please keep it clean, be positive, respectful, show courteous to your peers & instructor.

Please let me know of any technical issues you have with the internet or technology. You have two free absences to use at your discretion, and advised for only legitimate reasons.

Anything beyond 2 absences is -2% off your final letter grade.

Students with perfect attendance will earn 15 extra credit points at the end of the term.

■ TASKS, QUIZZES, € TESTS ■

Zoom Meetings: Points are earned in two ways during Zoom meetings: attendance and participation. Attendance is attending the Zoom meeting on-time, being present when roll is taken, and keeping your camera on the whole time. Participation is engaging in the conversation, staying involved with lecture & activities, while completing any live tasks during Zoom.

Discussion Board Posts: Your participation in class will also involve writing and responding to weekly discussion boards. In general, you should contribute an original posting where you do one of two things: (1) pose a thoughtful answer about the question(s) I will pose at the top of the board every week, or (2) provide an interesting example of a interpersonal communication concept or idea that you experienced in your life outside of the course (conversation, news, social media, etc.). Each discussion post should be approximately 250 words / 1 - 2 paragraphs.

You will also participate by replying to your fellow peers, to offer another perspective or follow-up thought. There is no formal requirement on the length of a reply. Discussion boards will become available to post every Monday.

- 1. The initial post is due Wednesday by 6pm (this is the only task that is not due Friday).
- 2. Your one reply is due Fridays by 6pm.

Chapter Quizzes: There will be a weekly 5-question/5-point chapter quizzes on Moodle. These are meant to check your understanding of the reading material on a weekly basis. Quizzes will be available to take on Mondays and will be due by Fridays by 6pm. Quizzes are open-book, open-notes, and you have 10 minutes to finish the quiz.

Midterm and Final Exam: There will be two exams during the term consisting of multiple-choice, true/false, short answer, and essay questions. You will receive study guides for each exam. The final exam will not be cumulative.

Movie Response Paper: You will watch one at-home movie that relates to interpersonal & relationship-oriented communication. You will then write a response & critique paper (3 pgs dbl-spaced) that examines the movie through an interpersonal communication lense. You will describe & analyze a few scenes to offer a different perspective on the movie.

Final Project - Identity Collage: Your final project will be to present different aspects of your self-concept. This can include your culture, communication style, personality, life experiences, and much more. You will create a collage on a poster board or on $8 \frac{1}{2} \times 11$ paper, or if you have photoshop/adobe illustrator or related experience, then you can digitally create yours. You will upload your poster/picture on Moodle, along with a description paper of what you did and why.

Final Project - Show N' Tell: After you have submitted your identity collage, we will all meet once more on Zoom to do a show and tell. These will be 2 - 3 min presentations, semi-informal, semi-prepared, based on your description papers you wrote about your identity collages.

■ COMMUNICATION ■

Email: Email is the quickest way to ask questions, state concerns, or simply reach me. I will respond to emails as quickly as I reasonably can.

Zoom: I am also available via Zoom if you would like to schedule any meetings with me to receive feedback or ask questions.

■ TECHNICAL REQUIREMENTS ■

The penalty for late papers and projects is a 50% point deduction & for only 48 hours after the deadline. Anything after 48 hours is a zero.
