

Former Secretary Udall talks politics

Former Secretary of Interior, Stuart Udall, visited with LBCC students on May 11 to endorse Senator McGovern as a presidential candidate. During his talk he outlined many of McGovern's views on relevant issues.

McGovern captures LBCC straw vote

Linn-Benton Community College held a Mock Oregon Presidential Election, May 15 and 16. 127 Democrats and 22 Republicans cast their votes for 1 of the 11 Democrats or 4 Republicans.

All in all, Linn-Benton Community College Democrats seem to be following a State Wide pattern, voting in Senator George McGovern by a large majority.

For the Democrats it was another landslide with 62 per cent of the votes going to George McGovern. His closest opponent was George C. Wallace, who brought in a 8 per cent tally of all Democratic votes cast. Following Wallace was Shirley Chisholm with 6 per cent and Edward Kennedy with 5 per cent.

The results are listed below:
Democratic — 127
Shirley Chisholm — 7, Hubert H. Humphrey — 6, Henry M. Jackson — 3, Edward M. Kennedy — 6, John V. L. Kennedy — 6, John V. Lindsay — 1, Eugene J. McCarthy — 1, George S. McGovern — 78, Wilbur D. Mills — 0, Patsy T. Mink — 4, Edmund S. Muskie — 2.

For the Republicans, Richard Nixon won easily with 17 of 22 votes cast. His closest opponent was Paul McCloskey with 4 of the 22 Republican votes.

Republican — 22
John M. Ashbrook — 0, Paul McCloskey — 4, Richard M. Nixon — 17, Pat Paulson — 1, Keith Bailey — 3.

Higher than state average

LBCC rates 22 percent increase

Dale Parnell, state school superintendent, made note of the enrollment increase of Oregon community colleges. It is educational history in that, though Oregon has had such colleges for more than a decade, yet they are still growing. Mr. Parnell explains the growth: "The fact that enrollments continue to jump is not only surprising but indicates that public demand for community college post-high school education programs continues at a high level."

The increase in the 1971-72 school year, though not as startling as in previous years, is still a somewhat surprising 14 per cent.

There were four community colleges which showed a higher increase of enrollment than the state average, and Linn-Benton was among them with a 22 per cent rise. The other three were Chemeketa with 29 per cent, Mt. Hood with 27 per cent, and Clatsop with a 14 per cent gain.

Portland Community College and Lane are still the two largest.

In contrast, Treasure Valley faced a decrease in FTE (Full Time Equivalent students). This may simply be, implied the superintendent, a levelling off in the schools student body. Many colleges have faced this.

Other percentage increases are: Blue Mt., 6 per cent; Central Oregon, 6 per cent; Clackamas, 4 per cent; Lane, 2 per cent; Portland, 10 per cent; Rogue, 100 per cent (as this is their first year); Umpqua, 2 per cent.

Bike owners-bike thefts to increase

Since bike riding is on the rise, so is the incidence of bicycle thefts.

According to the Bicycle Institute of America, the 1972 bike sales are expected to go up to eight and one half million purchases, of which 30 per cent are light weight, multi-speed models.

Along with the bicycle boom there has to become an overnight black market. Organized rings of bike thieves are equipped with bolt cutters to panel trucks.

The recovery rate of bicycles is very nil, according to most police officers. Since there is no positive way to make your bike burglar-proof, the B.I.A. suggests the following procedures to prevent thefts and aid the recovery of bicycles;

1) Lock the bike to a stationary object using a heavy chain and lock.

2) Lock bike in a conspicuous place, being careful to keep it indoors at night.

3) Run chain through wheels and the frame before locking to a stationary object (Never just lock the wheels to the frame).

4) Record bike serial number (not model number).

5) Take a close-up picture of the entire bike.

6) Register your bike with the police department.

7) List your bike description and serial number on your home owner's insurance policy. Buy some inexpensive insurance for the bike.

What do you think of the mining of the ports in Viet Nam?

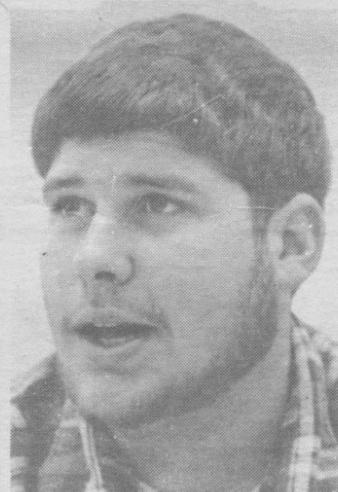

Margo Stratton — "It should have been done years ago; now, I'm afraid of the consequences."

Linde Bristol — "I think it should have been done. It's late now, but better late than never."

Ed Bergholtz — "It's right, but it's late."

Shelley Stewart — "I'm against it. I think there's got to be a better way of doing it."

Opinion

In this issue of THE COMMUTER, you will notice a letter questioning Dr. Miller's power. At the bottom of the letter you will notice the ominous title of Committee for the Evaluation of the Position of Director of Student Activities.

Since this is a serious set of charges against an important member of the administration, let us take some time to study this letter carefully.

The first statement is a strong one, but where are the facts to back it up? Why is his office a proponent of apathy? Hasn't he planned enough activities? What has he done to cause and increase student apathy?

According to this letter the change in Dr. Miller's title has changed his attitude and duties. Had his attitude changed, would he have reacted in the same way when his title was merely Student Activities Advisor? I for one have noticed no change in his power or duties.

So far, in just the first paragraph of his letter, we see that the writers have failed to document their rash statement, and they have misrepresented the facts.

In the next paragraph we see again undocumented accusations. What "opinions and demands" has he forced on student organizations?

This letter finally gets into the real crux of the complains when it discusses Dr. Miller's refusal to sign some requisitions. Again, the letter fails to document this statement with particular situations.

For the benefit of the uninformed reader, I'll provide you with one particular situation.

The LBCC Vet's Club presented Dr. Miller with a requisition to buy the makings for a club picnic and kegger. Dr. Miller refused to sign this requisition only because of a ruling prohibiting alcohol from school sponsored activities. The question was not whether or not school funds were being used to buy the keg. Dr. Miller was following a rule set down by the powers-that-be above him. He was not "thwarting" the club's activities, he was merely protecting LBCC from legal and public disapproval.

Looking again at the letter we see emotionalism used in the words "unscrupulous tactics," and "profound opinion." Emotionalism, I might add, without facts.

How are the writers of this letter so sure they represent a majority?

I am truly afraid, in my own opinion, that if Dr. Miller were employed in an only advisory capacity, nothing would get done. Documentation of this statement is available to anyone who checks into the activities that were presented this year and just how much Dr. Miller had to work to organize them.

The last sentence of the letter is another undocumented statement that borders on falsehood. How do you know the freezing of some activity funds is not warranted? Check the use of the words "unwarranted" and "without a doubt." I'm sure you will find they contain more value judgement than fact.

This editorial is not to decide whether or not Dr. Miller's activities should be restricted. I only wanted to point out that it will take more facts and less emotionalism to drive home a point of this magnitude.

J.H.

Tailfeathers

If shoe fits.....

To the Editor:

Honorable Thief, Mike Gregory, San:

I was quite delighted to see your letter in THE COMMUTER. I called no one a thief but as you said, you are one of her friends and you should know better than I. If the shoe fits wear it. Shakespeare said "I think the gentleman doth protest too much." Also "so be it with Caesar. If it were so it were a grievous sin."

But, honestly Mike, doesn't it seem odd to you for a veteran newspaperman to ignore a building burning down while screaming for help and turning in a three alarm call for a bonfire that was already extinguished?

This whole thing seems to be the case of a louse coming out of the woodwork and standing on his hind legs while screaming: "Don't call me a common louse. I am an honorable louse."

Cause of apathy?

To the Editor:

The office of student activities director is one of the main proponents of apathy on the campus. Bob Miller's title used to be Student Activities Advisor. His involvement as an advisor was very effective in aiding student organizations. However, his title has since been changed to Director of Student Activities, the net result being that he now dictates student activity policies.

His dictatorial procedures are not outwardly shown. He forces his opinions and demands upon the activities of student organizations by virtue of his control of money which is allocated for the activities of student organizations. The people are not few in number who have come away from Bob Miller's office with a requisition that was unadorned with Lord Miller's signature of approval. As the activities of student organizations are constantly being thwarted by Mr. Miller's unscrupulous tactics, it is the profound opinion of a concerned majority of interested students that Mr. Miller should be released of his custodial responsibility of student funds. Furthermore, Mr. Miller's activities should be restricted to those which will employ him in an advisory capacity. The unwarranted freezing of student activity funds is without a doubt Dr. Miller's personal contribution to the growing apathy on campus.

LONG & SHORT

By S. COLLINS

Last week we discussed the caskets role in the home. In this rather morbid discussion we got onto the subject of discouraging burglars. I would like to continue on this subject now.

Burglar alarms are nice but totally uncreative. I would like to propose a creative burglar warning system.

For example, you could hook up a complete tape recorder system which would be hooked to every door, window, drawer, and cupboard. Each would have its' own little phrase.

For instance, if your burglar is brave enough to use a door, you could have a tape that says, "If you're looking for my wife, her phone number is . . ." or "good thinking, the window is booby-trapped!" If he uses a window, you might have it rigged to say, "Brilliant, fella, the key to the back door is under the mat!" or "Does your mother know you're here?"

Now, if your crook is lucky enough or smart enough to slip by your window and door tapes, you can have the cupboards and drawers rigged. For example, you could have the cupboards say, "Why not, everyone else does!" (That'll make him think) or, "Try Calgon Bath Oil Beads!"

Now, I saved the drawers for last. You could have them say, "How do you live with yourself?" or (Now get this) "Ring around the collar!"

Now, if you follow these suggestions you should have little or no trouble with thieves. But if you do, maybe you should just have all the tapes say, "Try it, you'll like it." If that doesn't discourage him, nothing will.

Picks bone

To the Editor:

I would like to pick a bone with the people of the United States about the increasingly apathetic atmosphere surrounding our ecology. I realize that many people will at this point disregard my letter with a feeling of distaste towards a worn-out topic, but if I didn't try to give them a kick in the right place, I don't believe I could look at myself in the mirror each morning with any amount of dignity.

We must face the fact that if we don't place our posteriors in proper motion, someday we may not be around to pull up our drawers. I for one do not relish the thought of receiving a letter from the government someday stating that "Due to the abundant amount of toxic materials in our water, air and nourishable crops, please see your local physician as to rationing of food supplement capsules and pure oxygen supply.

Something has to be done. I definitely believe that Ecology and the maintenance thereof in our high schools and colleges in the hopes that we can keep the old world rolling around the universe with an intelligent, productive life still flourishing and growing in, on, and around it; so write your congressman for some information, cuss out the head of a poisonous industrial complex, pick up a piece of trash today, DO SOMETHING!

Club very active

To the Editor:

The LBCC Ecology-Outdoor Club has been extremely active on campus. This year we had three clean-up campaigns, started a Recycling Center complete with outdoor bulletin board and turf. Thanks to Hal Johnson, Turf Management instructor, and Ed Kelley for work on the turf project. The club is now working on a SOLV-Mr. Grimes sponsored contest to beautify our campus. The prizes are 100 plus gallons of ice cream and a trip to New York in November. Thursday, May 18th, the two judges, Jim Moore, Albany Fire Department; Sergeant Sandquist, Linn County Sheriffs Office, toured the LBCC campus. They commented on how clean the campus grounds were, yet no clean-up campaign had been held since the Chamber of Commerce contest April 15.

The LBCC campus clean-up campaign April 1 in preparation for Open House April 2 was successful in amount of litter and area cleaned up. Only three people showed, however.

Albany Chamber of Commerce Clean-up Program and Parade was a huge success, both in terms of litter picked up, students attending, and the awards; two certificates and a ribbon were received for participating and 2nd prize in the parade.

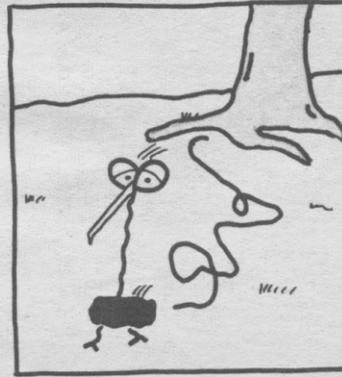

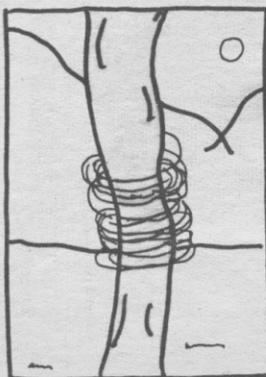

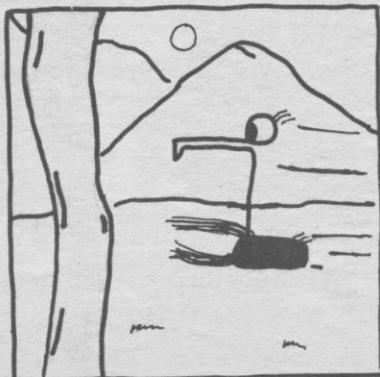

Oak Grove Park dedication netted another award, this time from Governor McCall in honor of President Nixon's clean-up day and honoring Linn County youths for their anti-litter activities. Interstate 5 was cleaned and the park was dedicated April 29.

Now, our Recycling Center needs help in order to be a success. Bring elbow grease and sandpaper — the paint on the barrels needs to be slightly roughed up so the top coat will stick and not blister. Then the litter collected has to be sorted into the 55 gallon drums. Also, a bin with storage space underneath, and the front of it labeled has to be constructed. The barrels will be placed on wheels and put inside the bin. The front of the bin will be hinged. A ramp or stairs will be placed at the front of the bin.

We would appreciate your support toward a cleaner environment.

High School goal standards revised

For years, high schools have been discussing the problem of the exact requirements for the most beneficial 12 year educational program. In the past, as now, this system has been geared towards preparing the student for college, though it is recognized that only a small per cent will actually enter college, or even attempt it. And so, the Oregon Board of Education has revised the statement concerning graduation requirements, and is presenting the new proposal for further discussion and amendment at four separate meetings. The places and times for these meetings are: Blue Mt. Community College (Pendleton), April 21; SWOC (Coos Bay), May 12; Oregon Board of Education (Salem), June 26; Medford, August 25. The last two dates are subject to change. Suggestions will be considered until the September Board Meetings, when it is brought forward for final adoption.

Through discussion among students, faculty, and administration, it is believed that a system will evolve which, after meeting the minimal requirements, will enable a student to emerge capable of coping with the world.

In the proposal, under the heading, "Performance Requirements for Program Completion," are listed four fields in which competency (competency implying the possession of skills, knowledge, and understandings to the point at which they can be demonstrated) must be achieved and which. These areas of competency include: Career Development, Consumer Affairs, Social Responsibility, and Personal Development. After full completion of these skills, a diploma will be granted. For those who do not meet fully the requirements, but which to stop the formal high school experience, a certificate will be given stating the requirements met.

A definition of the competencies which must be met are as follows: 1) Career Development — each student shall be capable of functioning in a wide range of related fields. 2) Consumer Affairs — each student shall be able to handle money and understand price-quality relationships. 3) Social Responsibility — each student shall be able to function in three roles effectively and responsibly. They would include the role as a participating citizen, as a concerned citizen interacting with the environment, and as a citizen on the streets and highways. 4) Personal Development — he shall be able to communicate through the written or spoken word, and will be capable of analyzing such communication received. He shall be able to compute using basic processes, and understand basic scientific and technological processes. It will also be necessary for him to develop a healthy mind and body (not unlike today's requirements), and to develop and maintain the role of a life-long learner. Not all these competencies are expected to be met in the high school. But by daily observations made by the instructors, thus eliminating lengthy tests, instructors can determine the course of development in particular students.

The number of years spent in high school will be subject to the availability of outside, suitable experience which could be substituted for that which could be supplied in a school.

In the "Statement of the Problem" in the Appendix of the proposal, recognition is paid to the fact that young people need to be prepared to cope with this complicated world, and that though the basic requirements of 40 years ago still apply, there are contemporary needs which must be fulfilled. It is hoped that this proposal will help the student to meet the needs of the individual, the state, and the nation.

LBCC picnic to fete all

The fourth annual Linn-Benton picnic will be held May 24 (Wednesday) at 3 p.m. in Bryants Park in Albany. If the weather turns bad, however, it will be staged at the Linn County Fairgrounds. All 4:00 p.m. classes will be called off so everyone can attend. The activities offered include a three-legged sack race, tricycle races, possibly an egg throw, and a friendly competition between faculty and students in softball and volleyball. It has also been planned that the various clubs would sponsor booths whose intent was somehow related to the purpose of the club.

Food will be served. The menu is composed of chicken, potato salad, potato chips, and pop.

Various clubs have been asked to donate the tricycles for the race, which will then be given to the Child Day Care Center in Albany.

Dorothy Christman, who is in charge of this affair, would appreciate any volunteers for running the volley game, the clean-up campaign, or any number of other things. Anyone who is interested should contact her through the Student Government Offices.

Everyone is invited, including their little kids. Special activities will be set up for them.

Barnes elected

OCCA prexy

May 11, 12, and 13 were the days of the OCCA Convention at Coos Bay on the campus of Southwestern Oregon Community College.

LBCC sent approximately 20 students, administration, board, faculty, and classified members.

At the meetings there were 14 resolutions discussed and voted upon. Only one of these resolutions failed to pass.

The resolution that failed pertained to the waving of P.E. classes and replacing the credits with extracurricular activities or manual labor.

People from LBCC that were elected to positions within the OCCA sections were Mr. James Barnes, who is head of the social science department, was installed President of the OCCFA (Oregon Community College Faculty Association) and Harvey Scott, junior past AS-LBCC President, was installed President of the OCCSA (Oregon Community College Student Association).

Next years convention will be held at Mt. Hood Community College.

Car Rally-picnic upcoming

Linn-Benton's Annual Coast Run Car Rally will be held Sunday, May 28. Everyone is invited to enter, including faculty, administration, and members of other schools. Any street legal vehicle is eligible.

Persons planning to participate in the rally should meet at the LBCC College Center at 10:00 a.m. An entry fee of $1.50 per car will be charged to cover the cost of a picnic at the end of the rally.

Each car should contain at least two people, a driver and

McGovern drops by

The LBCC Budget Steering Committee was pleasantly surprised during their luncheon on May 19 at the Sweet Wing when Senator McGovern took time from his campaigning in this area to drop in on the committee.

Meeting changed

There will be a publications board meeting on May 25th at 12:00 noon in the Conference room to interview applicants for COMMUTER staff positions.

Bloodmobile turnout below expectations

On Friday, May 12, the Nursing Department hosted its' second Bloodmobile at LBCC. When interviewed, Dave Oliver said that the turnout was not quite as good as anticipated. They expected at least fifty donors, but got only forty-three. Twenty per cent of the blood donated was given by nursing students and instructors. Dave said they had scheduled it on the wrong day and that next year it will be scheduled at the beginning of the week. Next year they hope to have a blood bank each term.

A number of students complained because the Bloodmobile took over Schafer Lounge and half of the Commons and the Foyer. Bob Miller said that since these are the only facilities the school has, the students should expect them to be used when they are needed.

The Bloodmobile and Nursing Department give special thanks to Phi Beta Lambda for their help in setting up the equipment.

LBCC nine selected on OCCAA all-star team

The Roadrunners went east this weekend to the other side of Oregon.

Friday they were set to meet Treasure Valley C.C. in the second game of National Junior College Athletic Association's Region 18 baseball playoffs.

But to get to the playoffs was another story. The 'Runners won the first game of OCCAA playoffs. But a sweep of all games was thwarted by Clackamas C.C. who won the second game of the day 7 - 6.

So this meant the Linn-Benton crew had to play three games to take home the bacon and take three games they did.

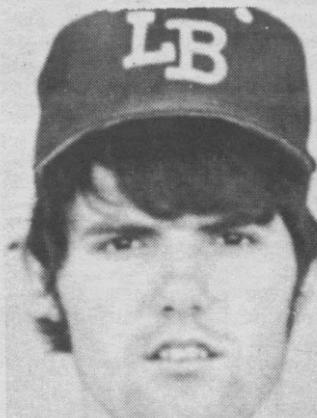

Led by Sophomore pitching ace Tom Martell the local nine bombed SWOCC 10 - 0 in five innings. Martell looked fresh and felt strong enough to start the second game against Clackamas in a game the Roadrunners had to win.

So the boy from Taft went to work again. Striking out 18 and pitching a two hitter the 'Runners came up even par with Clackamas, one game apiece.

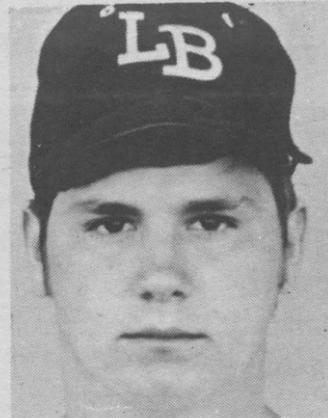

Jim Davidson started the next game but before he got to pitch he clouted a three-run homer as the Roadrunners went on to win 12 - 1 in five innings as Clackamas Coach Len Tirrill felt that five was enough.

"We were just ready," stated an elated catcher Dan Lipsey. "These kids were just darn mad and came to play ball and good ball they played," said Coach Dick McClain.
